From the President

Jean Brihault
EHF President

Dear handball friends,

As you read these lines and the following pages, the 2016/17 season will have left its starting blocks. Younger age category events such as the Men's 20 EHF EURO in Denmark, the Men's 18 EHF EURO in Croatia, the corresponding EHF Championships in Georgia, Lithuania and Bulgaria as well as the Women's 18 European Open in Sweden have been played. Qualification tournaments for the VELUX EHF and the Women's EHF Champions League will throw off soon. So the question is: What remains of the 2015/16 season, the season that only just passed, but on the other hand is already a part of the EHF's rich history?

While this question is impossible for me to answer for each of you individually, as you all probably have different memories - depending on your nationality or your allegiance to a certain club - I can tell you what I hope will remain.

We have created an incredible amount of "I was there" moments over the past 12 months. Who would have thought that in January at the EHF EURO, Croatia would beat Poland by 14 goals to squeeze past the tournament hosts as well as past defending champions France and qualify for the semi-final? Not to mention that only a few days later Germany, severely hit by several injuries to key players throughout the tournament, topped the podium. Who would have thought around the 45th minute in the final of the VELUX EHF Champions League that KS Vive Tauron Kielce could turn the game against MVM Veszprém around and even win? Who could have guessed that this final and also the final in the Women's EHF Champions League would only be decided after penalties?

In my eyes all these games have created an "I was there" moment. A moment in the mind of a fan, who watched the game live in the arena or on television, that will last for many years, maybe even forever. And it is these moments which are part of the reason that makes our sport so great! Where else other than in handball can these amazing turnarounds happen, where else other than in handball do we see so much tension packed into just 60 minutes? I hope that in the seasons and years to come we will witness many more matches like the ones just mentioned.

But stop! This season was not just about the EHF EURO or the EHF Champions League. It was so much more, starting with the women's younger age category events last summer all the way to the Women's Trophy in March and the ebt Finals in May. And let us not forget the EHF's European Cup competitions.

For all of them we have created this Sport Report, covering the period from 1 July 2015 to 30 June 2016, which enables you to re-enjoy the highlights of the 2015/16 season. We hope that the memories of these thrilling handball months stay with you forever.

Germany win the EHF EURO 2016

KS Vive Tauron Kielce win the VELUX EHF Champions League

CSM Bucuresti win the Women's EHF Champions League

Top marks for hosts as Germany win gold

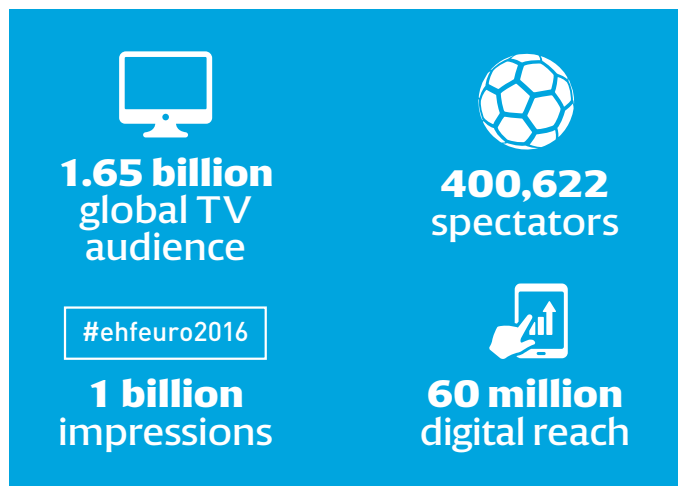

The EHF and its exclusive media and marketing partner, Infront Sports & Media, released record figures after the Men's EHF EURO 2016

Expectations were high ahead of the Men's EHF EURO 2016 in Poland in January as the country staged its first major international handball championship. The event and its host, the Polish Handball Federation, promised much and delivered in spades, receiving all-round praise for the organisation of the championship in the cities of Krakow, Katowice, Wroclaw and Gdansk.

Europe's top 16 national teams thrilled record number of spectators and TV viewers in a tournament that saw underdogs prevail and favourites, including the defending champions France, crumble. The title was ultimately to go to Germany, something which prior to the tournament few people would have predicted. Their win, the nation's second in the history of the competition, was nothing short of a sensation, also back home in Germany where 13 million people followed the final match against Spain on television. Missing many of their top stars, the young German side grew as a team throughout the championship and was inspired by the outstanding performance of their goalkeeper, Andreas Wolff.

FACTS & FIGURES

In a sold-out TAURON Arena in Krakow the Germans defeated Spain 24:17 (10:6) to take the trophy and further extended the Spanish losing streak in EHF EURO finals, which includes losing to Sweden in 1996, Russia in 1998 and France in 2006. With this win Germany received the jackpot, taking home not just the championship plate but also a direct ticket to the 2016 Olympic Games in Rio and, together with Spain and third-placed Croatia, direct qualification to the World Championship in France in January 2017.

Spectator record in sport-loving Poland

Speaking at the closing press conference, the EHF President, Jean Brihault, described the tournament as a resounding success, saying: "The EHF EURO 2016 has been the biggest and one of the best to date. In sport-loving Poland our event received huge support. This explains the new spectator record for an EHF EURO with over 400,000 spectators across all four venues."

The President of the Polish Handball Federation, Andrzej Krasnicki, said: "It has been a big success for Poland, for our sport and handball. We worked with fantastic people and had fantastic time. We want to thank all stakeholders including volunteers. We have one winner and the winner was handball."

Media coverage worldwide

A huge global audience followed the action and the latest news live from Poland, with almost 1,200 media representatives on site and TV coverage by 75 TV stations in more than 165 countries and territories.

The official website ehf-euro.com broke all records with more than one million visitors and 10 million page impressions and more than 1.5 million live streams were watched on the federation's video platform, ehfTV.com.

Social media also played an important role in the EHF's coverage with content distributed across a wide range of social media channels. Fans could follow the event on YouTube, Facebook, Twitter and Instagram. A Whatsapp service was introduced for the first time and the federation's team of mobile reporters were active throughout the event providing live coverage on a new Snapchat channel ehf_live.

Sporting sensations, great atmosphere

EHF Secretary General Michael Wiederer discusses what impressed him most at the EHF EURO 2016

EHF Secretary General, Michael Wiederer, provides his conclusions on the Men's EHF EURO 2016 from an organisational and sporting angle, as he begins to look ahead to Croatia 2018.

EHF: After two great weeks of handball in Poland, how do you rate the cooperation of the EHF with the Polish Organising Committee?

Michael Wiederer: The cooperation with the Polish organisers was very fruitful and demonstrated at the highest level. Both expectations were satisfied. As well as the Polish OC, the EURO department from the European Handball Federation did a great job. The stakes are high for all upcoming EURO organisers.

EHF: Are you content with the number of spectators?

Michael Wiederer: Overall, the 400,000 spectators exceeded all expectations from the EHF and the Organising Committee. It was not only the record number of fans which will last, but the great atmosphere in the arenas that fans will remember.

Since Austria 2010, it is clearly recognisable that all measures to create a memorable atmosphere has been achieved in all host countries. This time in Poland, it was not only the amazing atmosphere in Krakow, but the energy throughout the country, even in those matches without the Polish team in action, that will remain with the fans.

EHF: From a sporting viewpoint, do you agree that it was a 'tournament of surprises'?

Michael Wiederer: To be honest, I did not expect those semi-finalists, except for Spain, as they belonged to the previous medal contenders. For the development and the promotion of handball, it is great that new nations, or nations that had been out of the spotlight for several years, are on the stage and back in the focus.

The EURO has proved the depth of top European handball, not only by looking upon the semi-finalists, but even those who missed the main round, such as Iceland or Slovenia, or those teams that missed the EURO all-together. Therefore, the extension to 24 teams at the EURO 2020 is the right step for European handball. In general, a large number of nations have rejuvenated their squads and we have seen a lot of young faces at the EURO.

EHF: What can future organisers and the EHF learn from the 2016 EURO in Poland?

Michael Wiederer: We saw that it obviously makes sense to invest in the arenas. It is an investment in comfort, satisfaction and atmosphere. Which pays off for all groups, but mainly the spectators. The better the arena, the better the atmosphere.

Another really impressive conclusion of this EURO is the huge increase in TV interest across Europe. Only national teams can cause such numbers and it was really extraordinary.

EHF: Croatia is the next Men's EURO organiser in 2018. What do you expect from them?

Michael Wiederer: The 13th Men's EURO will be the first tournament in history showcased by a nation which has also previously hosted. But times and things have changed completely since Croatia hosted the EURO 18 years ago. The next organiser knows what homework they need to do, mainly in terms of the venues, so their work begins now.

“You cannot compare the two titles”

Following the surprising EHF EURO 2016 gold medal he won with Germany, Vive Tauron Kielce right wing Tobias Reichmann also won - even less expected - the VELUX EHF Champions League at the end of May

At the EHF EURO 2016 in Poland, Tobias Reichmann was Germany's top scorer and gained a nomination to the tournament's All-star team. Four months later he was again at the very top of European handball when he won the VELUX EHF Champions League with Vive Tauron Kielce at the end of May.

Reichmann scored nine times in the final and played a huge part in his team's incredible comeback and eventual 39:38 win against MVM Veszprém after penalties. They had been trailing by nine goals with 15 minutes left on the clock during regular time.

For the 28-year-old, who transferred to Kielce in 2014, it was his third EHF Champions League trophy. He had won the competition already with THW Kiel in 2010 and 2012.

EHF: Looking back at the final, what went through your mind when Kielce were trailing by nine with only 15 minutes left to play?

Tobias Reichmann: We were out, we were down, we were beaten - and every ten seconds I looked at the scoreboard, hoping the match would end soon. But then we suddenly felt this momentum; it was not a single action, maybe Szmal's two or three consecutive saves. From that moment on, everything was going the right way, and Veszpreem were completely off path. We just kept rolling.

EHF: Have you ever caught up from a deficit of nine goals in your handball career before?

Tobias Reichmann: Yes, last season in the Champions League we were down by eleven at the start of the second half, but it was a group match without any significance, not a final against a team like Veszprém.

EHF: If someone on New Year's Eve had told you that you would win the EHF EURO as well in the VELUX EHF Champions League in 2016, what would you have responded?

Tobias Reichmann: That he or she must be completely crazy. I would have shaken my head and would have walked away.

EHF: When you compare the two, which title is the better one?

Tobias Reichmann: You simply cannot compare them. A victory with the national team is different to a victory with your club. But what I know for sure is that both celebrations are historic.

EHF: What does this EHF Champions League title mean for Polish handball, in particular after the national team failed to reach the semi-finals at the EHF EURO?

Tobias Reichmann: We all have shown and proven to everybody what we capable of achieving. A lot of people had said before that our team is too old and so on. Now we have produced the biggest ever result for Polish handball.

Sensational comeback for Kielce

The VELUX EHF Champions League played its final weekend – the VELUX EHF FINAL4 – in Cologne's LANXESS arena on 28/29 May, where a capacity crowd of 20,000 witnessed one of the sport's biggest ever comebacks. With 45 minutes of the final played, Poland's KS Vive Tauron Kielce were down and out, trailing by nine goals to MVM Veszprém and the trophy seemed to be on its way to Hungary. Then the impossible happened. Veszprém lost their rhythm and their confidence, scoring only once in the final 15 minutes of the second half. The Polish side equalised in the dying seconds of the match [29:29] to take the match to extra time [35:35] and then penalties, sensationally winning their first VELUX EHF Champions league title [39:38]. In their first appearance at Cologne, French Champions Paris Saint-Germain Handball came third with a 29:27 [15:11] win against THW Kiel.

“This is the pinnacle of my career”

The MVP of the Women's EHF FINAL4 2016, Jelena Grubisic, overcame injuries and a tough season to play a key role in CSM Bucuresti's first European title win

CSM Bucuresti shook the world of women's handball in May 2016 when they lifted the elusive trophy at their maiden Women's EHF FINAL4. After Clara Woltering claimed the award playing for title winners Buducnost in 2015, another magnificent goalkeeper was named MVP.

With a staggering 20 saves in the semi-final and 18 in the final, CSM Bucuresti keeper Jelena Grubisic was the unsurpassable barrier as she wrote the final chapters of CSM's fairy tale in Budapest. With a huge smile on her face, Grubisic fought emotions while reflecting on the amazing season.

“We've had a crazy season, and this a marvellous feeling. It looks like we've surprised everyone - although I have to admit that we haven't surprised ourselves,” says the 29-year-old. “We have already won trophies as a team, and our players are top class. However, everything came together in these two days resulting in us showing the handball world we're able to play. CSM's road to the trophy epitomises Grubisic's career, as the goalkeeper endured very difficult times due to recurring injuries in past seasons. After her Women's EHF FINAL4 performance, it is clear Grubisic's injury woes are well and truly gone.

"I came to Bucharest in a difficult stage of my career; at a new club, recovering from a difficult injury. It took a lot of work, support and patience to overcome everything, and I owe it all to this team," she says. "I did not know how it would turn out, but our goalkeeping coach was extremely supportive and contributed a lot to my form this season. I'm the one to take the individual award, but it actually belongs to the entire team."

To complicate Grubisic's individual challenges, the Romanian champions took the hardest path to the FINAL4, having to overcome turmoil within the club and facing top contenders Rostov-Don in the quarter-finals, after finishing fourth in the group at the end of the main round. That was when everything changed for the newly-crowned champions, who defeated three-time FINAL4 participants HC Vardar and two-time EHF Champions League winners Györi Audi ETO KC to claim their first European title.

"This is truly a dream come true and a pinnacle of my career. I am overjoyed and thankful to everyone at the club for being able to be here and achieve this," says Grubisic.

Champions in first season

Playing their first season among Europe's top flight and with two-time Champions League winners Buducnost and Györi Audi ETO KC also competing at the Women's EHF FINAL4 in Budapest on 7/8 May, Romania's CSM Bucuresti were always going to be one of the least favoured teams going in to the event. However, the Romanians played two almost perfect matches in the city's Papp László Sportaréna, beating HC Vardar in their semi-final 27:21 [14:9] and going on to beat Györi Audi ETO KC 29:26 [25:25, 22:22, 13:12] in the final in front of 12,000 spectators. CSM provided both the tournament's MVP, goalkeeper Jelena Grubisic, and also the competition's overall top scorer Isabelle Gulldén, who scored 15 goals in the final alone and 108 during the season.

Göppingen underline EHF Cup supremacy

Only three times in the past 20 years has a non-German club lifted the trophy in the Men's EHF Cup – and in May 2016, again a German squad topped the podium

With a 32:26 win against HBC Nantes, Frisch Auf Göppingen became the latest German team to win the Men's EHF Cup. They won in the final in May 2016, continuing an impressive streak that saw only three non-German clubs lift the trophy over the past 20 years. For Göppingen, it was the third time they won the competition after their back-to-back titles in 2011 and 2012.

With their third trophy, Göppingen caught up to two Bundesliga rivals, THW Kiel and SC Magdeburg; the only other three-time victors in the EHF Cup's history. In addition, Göppingen claimed a place in the competition for the 2016/17 season.

Only one weak half

At half-time of Göppingen's semi-final match against Chambéry, not many believed the German team would go all the way, as they were trailing by five goals with a score of 14:9. However, during the break, they regrouped and in the second half, Göppingen produced a performance that was nothing short of full focus and passion.

Göppingen's players were on a high after their incredible turnaround in the semi-final match. Having been able to recover from a bad start to the game had give the team a boost of confidence - and a confident squad was exactly what the 4,500 spectators in the Salle Sportive de la Trocardiere saw on the court for the final's 60 minutes. The German team, without a true superstar in their ranks, played strongly in defence, counting on team spirit, rather than on individual strength to exploit the opponent's mistakes.

Zarko Sesum, later announced as the tournament's MVP, and Adrian Pfahl were Göppingen's key players in the decisive moments of the game. "To win here against the home team is madness, but I think that the turning point of our weekend came yesterday at half-time. We realised that we could not let this chance slip and that we had to end the weekend without regret," said Sesum.

One top scorer

One trophy eluded the German side though. In order to overtake Granollers' Ferran Sole Sala, Göppingen's Marcel Schiller would have had to score eight goals in the final. Unfortunately, Schiller only netted seven times, allowing the Fraikin BM Granollers player to be crowned top scorer with 70 goals scored from twelve games. "I'm very happy about it, especially when you see the list of the players I was competing with; it's a great honour," Sala said. The ten goals he scored in his team's last match led them to take third place with a 25:21 win against Chambéry Savoie Handball.

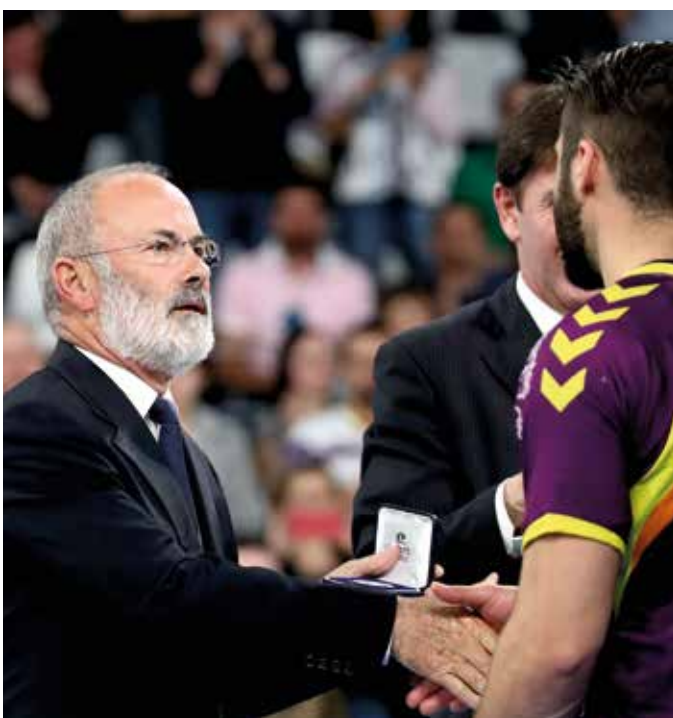

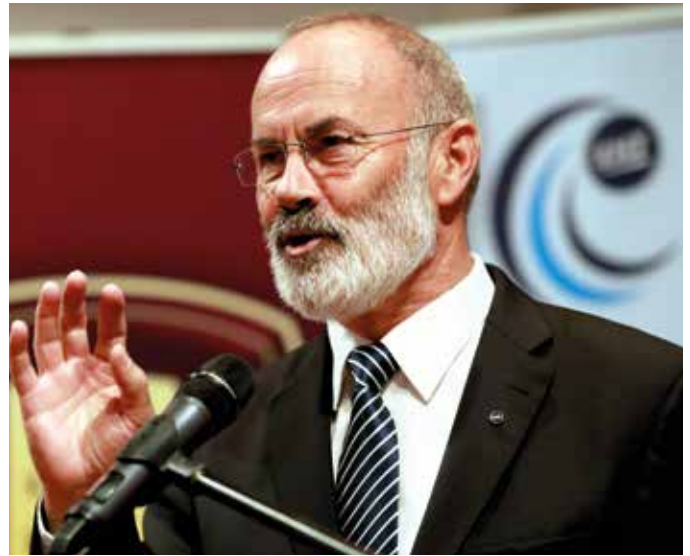

“The EHF Cup has found its own identity”

EHF President Jean Brihault discusses the growth of the Men's EHF Cup Finals and how the event has changed since its inauguration in 2013

After its first visit in 2013, the EHF Cup Finals came back to Nantes this season and looking back, it can be said it was a success both in terms of on-court play and organisation. EHF President, Jean Brihault, noticed that clear progress has been made since the first event three years ago.

“The organisation has been splendid. We are very happy about the great partnership we have with the club, HBC Nantes. Our method of working this year was a little bit different than from three years ago. Back then, it was the first time the EHF Cup Finals were organised and everyone had to learn the processes. Now, it has been more of cooperation between Nantes and the EHF,” he said. “The club makes suggestions and therefore, feels more involved. There has definitely been progress made since the first event in 2013.”

Off the court, Jean Brihault was also pleased with the brand-new La Trocardière arena, where the event took place. “This is the kind of venue we were aiming for in the future. Nice surroundings, functional and with ease of use. Beaulieu was nice, but it was becoming outdated, while this new arena is the perfect place to hold the EHF Cup Finals.”

In fact, the EHF Cup system implemented in 2012/13 has been such a success that the Women's EHF Cup and Cup Winners' Cup will amalgamate into a single EHF Cup competition next season as well. “It felt natural for us to start experimenting with men's handball, because the clubs are more evenly spread,” Brihault said. “The new competition has now found its own place on the handball landscape; it now has its own identity, its own place next to the VELUX EHF Champions League. Having seen its success, it now feels natural to apply the formula to the women's competition.”

After taking into consideration the organisational aspects, no one could ignore what was happening in the matches themselves. “Finals are rarely of a top technical level, but in terms of intensity and motivation, I think the level of play has increased annually. It seems like we almost have the EHF Cup on par with the Champions League; it is not a minor competition and we have the ambition to help it to further develop,” concluded Brihault.

Dunaujvaros end 17 years of hurt

Dunaujvarosi Kohasz Kezilabda Akademia won the last edition of the Women's EHF Cup, before the competition will merge with the Cup Winners' Cup beginning next season; a format already followed by the Men's EHF Cup.

With a 29:21 win at home against TuS Metzingen in the final, after the German team won the first leg 28:26, the Hungarian side left no doubt about who would eventually lift the trophy.

During the return match in the Veszprém Arena, it took Dunaujvaros less than one half to catch up with the narrow deficit they had to chase after the first leg. At the break, the Hungarian side had already turned their shortfall into a two-goal cushion on aggregate, leading 18:14. Eventually, Dunaujvaros and their home fans celebrated the club's fourth European title overall and the first in 17 years. In 1995, they had won the Cup Winners' Cup, followed by the EHF Cup in 1998. One year later in 1999, Dunaujvarosi captured the most coveted trophy in club handball, the EHF Champions League.

With 57 goals each, three players dominated this season's ranking of top scorers: Metzingen's Anna Lörper, Dunaujvarosi's Krisztina Triscsuk and Florina Zamfir from Corona Brasov all shared the honour.

Holstebro win third title in four years

CUP WINNERS' CUP

Team Tvis Holstebro go down in history as the victors of the last edition of the Women's Cup Winners' Cup before the the competition merges with the EHF Cup in the 2016/17 season.

The Danish side came from behind in the first leg of the final to beat HC Lada Togliatti at home [31:27].

In the second leg, they won in Russia 30:25 to celebrate their third European Cup trophy in the past four years.

Lada Togliatti had reasons to believe that their home court advantage in the first leg might help them to win the trophy and in the first quarter of the game, their game plan seemed to be accurate. The hosts forged ahead right from the start and even though Holstebro's goalkeeper, Silje Solberg, made some great saves, Lada's advantage gradually grew to six goals. The Danish side continued to weather the storm and then suddenly found the strength to take control of the match, resulting in their 31:27 win.

Apart from the eventual winners, both games of the final had a common denominator: Holstebro's Nathalie Hagman was the top scorer, scoring 10 goals in the first leg and 13 goals in the second leg. As a result, it did not come as a surprise that the unstoppable Swedish left back became the top scorer of the competition with 75 goals.

In the past four years, Lada and Holstebro had been taking turns at the top of the EHF Cup podium. While Lada had won the title in even years [2012, 2014], the Danish side had done the same in odd years [2013, 2015]. This year, when both teams met in the Cup Winners' Cup Final, Holstebro broke with the 'tradition' and took the even-year title.

ABC/Uminho end season on a high

For the first time in the EHF's history, the final of a European Cup competition had become an entirely Portuguese affair, when S.L. Benfica and ABC/UMinho faced each other in the last two games of the Men's Challenge Cup.

ABC laid the foundations for the eventual victory in the first leg, which they won away in Lisbon 28:22. Even though ABC then lost the second leg 29:25 at home, their first defeat of the season did not prevent the team from claiming their club's first European trophy. "I'm very happy with this trophy and the result of my players' sacrifice. We know the importance of this trophy and I'm very emotional. The support of our fans and the energy we received from them was incredible," said ABC/UMinho's head coach, Carlos Resende.

The Braga-based club became the second club from Portugal to win the Challenge Cup, after Sporting Lisbon accomplished this feat six years ago. ABC also ended their own 'finals curse,' as they had lost all three of their previous European Cup finals. Back then, 'Sporting Braga' as they were called, missed the first EHF Champions League trophy in the 1993/94 season, after a narrow two-goal defeat to TEKA Santander in the final. Furthermore, their two other final appearances, in the Challenge Cup in 2004/05 against Wacker Thun and in 2014/15 against HC Odorhei, also ended in defeat.

ABC seemed unstoppable and remained undefeated until the last game of the season. They were even able to eliminate Odorhei in Round 3 and Wacker Thun in the quarter-finals en route to the final. In addition, ABC's left winger, Fabio Antunes and right back, Pedro Spinola, shared the season's top scorer honour, each with 53 goals.

A trophy for the whole island

There was a European Cup first when the Challenge Cup trophy was claimed by a club that does not originate from Europe's mainland. Rocasa Gran Canaria ACE from the Canary Islands celebrated their first European title after two four-goal victories against Turkish Kastamonu B. Genclik SK. A 29:25 away win in the first leg was followed by a 33:29 victory at home.

In the second leg, and in front of 2,350 enthusiastic spectators, Rocasa were leading 16:11 already at half-time and any doubt there might have been about the final outcome had vanished by this point. Similar to the first match, when she scored eight times, Rocasa playmaker, Maria Lujan Suarez, was the player that made a difference for her team, scoring 10 times. However, the season's top scorer went to Kastamonu's, Serpil Iskenderoglu, who scored 60 times in eight matches.

Rocasa's achievement ended a seven year trophy drought for all Spanish women's clubs in the EHF European Cup competitions. The last championship had been won by Itxako Navarra, who won the EHF Cup in 2009. Coincidentally, in both victories, inspirational Spanish international, Silvia Navarro, was the winning team's goalkeeper.

Danes secure title at W17 EHF EURO

A narrow win against Russia granted Denmark the win in the Women's 17 EHF EURO 2015 Final

The future seems to be particularly bright for women's handball in Denmark. Earlier in the summer of 2015, the country won the Women's 19 EHF EURO, defeating Russia in the final. Just weeks later, on 23 August 2015, the U17 team emulated this achievement by becoming the European champions and again, Russia were the beaten opponents.

However, the Danish girls could not be certain they would be the team to lift the trophy, as the leader of the match continued to change in the Jane Sandanski Arena in Skopje. At the end, only one goal separated the two sides when the scoreboard read 25:24 in favour of Denmark.

"A big compliment goes to our aggressive 6-0 defence, which won the match for us. Also, it was important that we were able to hold on to the ball for so long on our last attack. The Russians reduced the score to 25:24 with one minute left in the game, so the ability to maintain ball control and the experience levels of these young players were tested," said Denmark coach, Heine Eriksen.

Unusual preparation

The Danes had carried out their morning training on the day of the final in an untraditional way – outdoor on asphalt in 25 degree heat. At the beginning of the final, this did not appear to have been a particularly good idea, as Russia opened the match with a 4:1 lead. Five Danish goals in succession rapidly changed this development and the rest of the first half was dominated by the Danes to take a 14:10 half-time lead.

The 1,800 spectators witnessed a Danish team who continued to be in control of the match from the start of the second half, as they increased their lead to 16:11. With five minutes left, Denmark still led by three goals, 24:21.

Thanks to an extremely aggressive defence, the Russians were able to reduce the score to one goal and finish the game on a positive note. But unfortunately for the Russian side, their comeback came too late and the outcome of the match had been decided.

Russia's head coach, Daniil Shmaevskyi said, "It was a very good final with a lot of emotions, but also with a lot of mistakes. Russia made more mistakes and that is one of the reasons why we won the silver and not gold."

Denmark's new 'golden generation'

The Danish national team took home the gold at the Women's 19 EHF EURO 2015, defeating Russia 29:26 in the final in Valencia

There is good chance that a new generation of successful women's handball players is surfacing in Denmark these days. The first signs appeared at the Women's 19 EHF EURO 2015 in the Spanish city of Valencia in early August, where the national team won gold after beating Russia 29:26 in the tournament's final.

"Even in the second half, when the Russians came back again, we stayed cool and stuck to our game. We saw both goalkeepers perform at a high level; I can only praise the team's depth and quality," said Danish coach Dan Larsen after the final.

Russia, who went into the final with a psychological advantage, having defeated the Danes 25:22 in the main round, took control of the match early, but were unable to prevent the Danes from pulling away to a three-goal lead at half-time at 13:10. The Russians staged a comeback in the second half, but it was not enough to enable them to defend their title from 2013, while Denmark upgraded the bronze medal they had won two years earlier at home to gold. The third place was claimed by Sweden, who beat Hungary 25:24 (11:11) in the bronze medal game.

Altogether the three medallists accounted for five of the eight players in the event's All-star team. From the gold medal squad, Denmark's line player, Sara Trier Hald and right back, Celine Lundbye Kristiansen, were featured among the All-stars. From Russia, there were left winger Marianna Egorova and centre back Yaroslava Frolova, while Sweden had Sofia Hvenfelt as the best defender. The three remaining spots in the All-star team went to Tonje Haug Lerstad from Norway [goalkeeper], Germany's Emily Bök (left back) and Spain's Maitane Etxeberria (right wing).

Denmark, Sweden and Hungary also claimed the direct qualification to the 2016 Women's Junior World Championship in Russia from 3 to 17 July. Therefore, the Women's 19 EHF EURO silver medallists Russia directly qualified as the hosts and this presented another opportunity for Denmark to prove there is a new 'golden generation' in the making.

Youth Olympic titles for France and Russia

The 2015 European Youth Olympic Festival for U17 men's and women's national teams took place in the Georgian capital, Tbilisi

From 27 July to 1 August 2015, Europe's top sixteen men's and women's under 17 national teams were competing for the Youth Olympic titles. In 2013, Slovenia won the men's competition and Denmark took home the gold for the women at the previous festival in Utrecht.

The event's programme was comprised of nine sports: judo, tennis, artistic gymnastics, cycling, athletics, swimming, volleyball, basketball and handball. Over 3,800 athletes from 50 European countries competed in the Youth Olympic Festival.

In the men's handball competition, it was France who took the title in a thrilling fashion, but Slovenia pushed right to the final whistle of the championship. A goal in the last seconds from France's Kyllian Villeminot, the match's top goal scorer with 13 goals, made the title certain and the France team were able to celebrate after their 30:28 [12:16] win. Germany took third place with a convincing win over Norway 31:19 [13:10] in the bronze medal match.

Russia captured the gold medal in the women's competition. In a repeat of the 2013 final against Denmark, this time it was the Russians who prevailed, winning 21:20 in extra time, after the match was tied 18:18 after full-time. Norway improved on their seventh place finish in 2013, defeating the Czech Republic 37:23 to take the bronze medal.

2017 European Olympic Festival in Hungary

The next edition of the European Olympic Festival will take place in a city very familiar to fans of women's handball. The Hungarian city of Győr, home to the Women's EHF Champions League team, Györi Audi ETO KC, will play host to the event from 22 to 30 July 2017.

Faroe Islands win Women's Trophy

THE IHF/EHF's tournament for emerging handball nations saw Faroe Islands topping the podium ahead of Georgia and Belgium

It had been a long time coming for the Faroe Islands. The team had reached the final of the IHF/EHF Trophy, formerly the Challenge Trophy, on four separate occasions before they could finally celebrate.

In 2012, Faroe Islands lost to Bulgaria, in 2008 to Finland, in 2006 to Bosnia-Herzegovina and in 2004 to Italy. However, in March 2016, the Faroe Islands dominated the final in Tbilisi, Georgia and took a 28:14 win.

Earlier on the same day, Latvia won the bronze medal, after beating Belgium 30:21. Estonia came fifth following their 33:23 victory against Cyprus and Armenia placed seventh with a 29:5 win versus Albania.

Maria Halsdottir Weyhe was Faroe Islands' best player and much due to her shooting efficiency, as she scored nine goals in the match, her team had already carved out a 11:6 lead at the break. Georgia were not able to bounce back in the second half and Faroe Islands increased their lead goal-by-goal to eventually celebrate a deserved win.

Nevertheless, it was a special moment for the hosts, as they had returned to the competition for the first time since their last appearance in 2006, when they made it to the semi-finals in Bosnia-Herzegovina.

Proving significance

The Women's Trophy is designed to further develop handball, especially in emerging nations and to improve the presence of the sport in general. In addition, also ensuring the highest competition challenge for the participating nations and good infrastructure for all parties involved.

In 2014, at the eighth Trophy event in Larissa, Greece, Bulgaria topped the podium ahead of Israel and the Greek hosts. The fact that about a year later Bulgaria won the first qualification phase for the Women's EHF EURO 2016 shows the Trophy's significance for the development of handball.

“I’m not superman”

At the beginning of November 2015, Russian club Ekaterinodar won the EHF Beach Handball Champions Cup for the second year in a row

EHF correspondent Filipp Kolotushkin had the chance to talk to Roman Kalashnikov, the best goal scorer of the tournament in Gran Canaria, captain of the team and the Russian national team and one of this season's outstanding players.

EHF: Roman, in hindsight, how tough was this title defence for you?

Roman Kalashnikov: For me it was more difficult this year, primarily because of my poor physical fitness, and I also thought that this year our rivals were well prepared. They definitely have been approaching the Champions Cup more seriously.

EHF: Nevertheless, no team was able to defeat you. You lost just one set...

Roman Kalashnikov: Each match was unique. I cannot say we completely smashed any opponent. There were games where we were trying to work out some new combinations or prepare for the next match.

EHF: Ekaterinodar was the team who had the least amount of penalties and therefore you received the fair play award. How important is it for you to follow the fair play principles of beach handball?

Roman Kalashnikov: I would say that fair play is the main feature of our game; it is the reason why we can play a perfect game in defence. Evgeny Svestula was probably the best defender at this tournament. His blocking is almost always clean. In matches that we were quite sure to win, we set the goal to not get any suspensions. If anyone earned a suspension, he had to do push-ups or some sprints as a punishment.

EHF: Let's turn to you. You became the best scorer with 143 goals in 8 matches. What do you need to achieve such results?

Roman Kalashnikov: The success that I have in beach handball all comes thanks to the team. A lot depends on if the team trusts you and gives you the opportunity to finish the attack. Perhaps it also helps that I'm one of the first right-handers in beach handball who plays on the right wing, which might make it harder to defend against me. The rest is experience and practice. I do not have unique physical abilities to throw the ball stronger than anyone else, jump higher than anyone else. I'm not superman.

EHF: When did you start beach handball?

Roman Kalashnikov: I played indoor handball in school and it was only at university that I started playing beach handball. I want to say thanks to my father, Vladimir Kalashnikov, because he is the founder of Ekaterinodar in 2009 and he gave us the opportunity to play in the European Beach Tour.

EHF: Do you think you will be able to win the Champions Cup for the third time next year?

Roman Kalashnikov: Sure, he doesn't dream of becoming a general, is a bad soldier. We involve young players and we hope that the club will have the proper financial backing to continue. We will try to find some crazy handball fans like us and they will give their very best for the game. I don't want to lose the history that we have started creating for Ekaterinodar.

Agenta Girls and G.A.S. Kilkis Akropolis win

At the ebt Finals 2016 in Thessaloniki, Hungarian women's beach handball side Agenta Girls defended their title, while local Greek side G.A.S. Kilkis Akropolis topped the podium for the first time

There was a chance for a double-Greek victory as AC Spartacus Goalbet reached the women's final, however winning the second set 22:20 was not enough, as Agenta Girls showed nerves of steel in the shoot-out to win 7:4 and eventually take a 2:1 victory.

A shoot-out was also needed in the men's finals in which Kilkis Akropolis had won the first set against 2015 EHF Champions Cup winners BHC SKKM-EKATERINODAR 12:10, but lost the second 18:20. The shoot-out was equally close, with Kilkis Akropolis eventually winning the third set - and hence the game overall - 7:6.

Just ahead of the finals in both events defending men's champions Detono Zagreb claimed third place with 2:0 win against Paksoft Camelot. In the morning, the 'Detonators' had lost their semi-final against G.A.S. Kilkis Akropolis 0:2, forfeiting the chance to win the ebt Finals for the fourth time in a row and the seventh time overall.

In the women's event, Paksoft Camelot won bronze, winning 2:0 against Westsite in an all-Dutch match for third place.

For Agenta Girls the unbeaten run at the ebt Finals continues. After they had qualified for the 2015 event courtesy only of a wildcard, they topped the podium in unbeaten fashion and went all the way to the top without losing a game in 2016 as well.

Men's EHF EURO 2016 All-star team

The All-star team of the European Championship featured famous names as well as new players that demanded attention with their performance at Poland 2016

GOALKEEPER

Andreas Wolff

Andreas Wolff entered the EHF EURO 2016 as the second-choice goalkeeper, but quickly earned his spot starting between the posts for Germany. His performance against Sweden in their second group phase match made him one of the talking points of the championship and he continued his form to help Germany qualify for the final.

Manuel Strlek

The speedy Croatian wing is one of the top scorers of the championship, hitting the back of the net 39 times in seven matches. Not only has his contribution helped Croatia top the list of high-scoring teams, but he also shot at an incredible 83% success rate, missing only eight shots in the tournament.

Michal Jurecki

Michal Jurecki was the hero of the Polish team even before the first whistle at the EHF EURO 2016. The 31-year-old, who plays for top Polish club KS Vive Tauron Kielce [alongside Strlek], was a clear leader for the team in both attack and defence, ranking second on the list of goals and assists with 61 [34 goals, 27 assists] before the final matches.

CENTRE BACK

Sander Sagosen

Twenty-year-old Sander Sagosen is the youngest player on the All-star team, but there is no lack of skill from few years played. The Aalborg Handball centre back is a crucial part of Norway's attack, scoring 24 of the Scandinavian side's goals and completing 34 assists and he usually comes into the game as an impact player.

LINE PLAYER

Julen Aguinagalde

The Kielce line player is a long-time favourite of All-star teams, and for a good reason. Julen Aguinagalde's partnership with centre back Raul Entrerrios is a formidable combination, not to mention the fact that he has scored some of the most stylish goals of the EHF EURO 2016.

RIGHT BACK

Johan Jakobsson

Johan Jakobsson is one of the most dangerous men with the ball, as he is able to score long-range shots with lethal precision. Sweden's EHF EURO campaign ended with the SG Flensburg-Handewitt shooter sitting at 11th on the top scorer rank with 32 goals, while he is third on the list of goals and assists with a combined total of 60.

Tobias Reichmann

The only player to match Strlek's precision is found on the opposite wing. Tobias Reichmann has scored 43 goals ahead of the final at 83%, including 26 out of 27 of Germany's penalty shots. He was a crucial part of Germany's win in the semi-final against Norway, tallying an incredible 10 goals from 10 shots.

DEFENDER

Henrik Mollgaard

Although Denmark did not stand on the podium this year, Henrik Mollgaard has proven to be a key to the Scandinavian team's defence, causing their opponents big trouble from the middle of their traditional 6-0.

MOST VALUABLE PLAYER

Raul Entrerrios

With 19 goals and 28 assists before the final match, Raul Entrerrios led Spain through a steady EHF EURO campaign from his position at centre back to reach the final.

All-star team

80,000 fans voted for the All-stars of the 2015/16 season and these are the players they chose

GOALKEEPER

Niklas Landin

Niklas Landin joined THW Kiel at the beginning of the 2015/16 season. He is definitely no stranger to All-star teams, having already been named the best goalkeeper at the World Championship 2013, the EHF EURO 2014 and the VELUX EHF Champions League 2013/14.

Manuel Strlek

Since he joined the team in 2012, Manuel Strlek played his most successful season for KS Vive Tauron Kielce, scoring 53 times. He was also named best left wing at the EHF EURO 2010 and 2016.

Momir Ilic

For two seasons in a row, Momir Ilic was the top scorer of the VELUX EHF Champions League with 103 goals in 2013/14 and 114 in 2014/15. This season, he scored 120 times (to come second behind Mikkel Hansen) and played a considerable part in MVM Veszprém reaching Cologne.

CENTRE BACK

Dean Bombac

Dean Bombac passed the “100 goals in the EHF Champions League” mark for the first time in his career this past season. Stunning performances for his club came in rounds 1 and 10 when he scored 11 goals in each game; first against Kielce and then versus Rhein-Neckar Löwen.

YOUNG PLAYER

Darko Djukic

In a tough season for Besiktas Jimnastik Kulubu, 21-year-old Darko Djukic has been the standout star. The right wing scored 87 goals in 14 games. His talent for handball was already visible early; Djukic was only 17 when he was first nominated for the Serbian national team.

LINE PLAYER

Rastko Stojkovic

Even though HC Meshkov Brest bowed out in the Last 16 against Rastko Stojkovic's former club KS Vive Tauron Kielce, the Serbian line player still played an impressive season, scoring 89 goals and deservedly earning his place in this season's All-star team.

Kiril Lazarov

Kiril Lazarov is the only player who is back in this season's All-star team, after a majority of fans voted for him in 2015. Once again, the Macedonian was FC Barcelona's top scorer for the season, netting 109 times overall.

Gasper Marguc

Twenty-five-year-old Gasper Marguc enjoyed an excellent season. Being topped only by Momir Ilic, he is the second most prolific scorer in his second season playing for the Hungarian champions.

DEFENDER

Istvan Timuzsin Schuch

After a 'one-year break,' when THW Kiel's Rene Toft Hansen was voted the best defender in the 2014/2015 season, Istvan Timuzsin Schuch is back in the VELUX EHF Champions League All-star team. He is destined for greatness, as his name is a combination of István, the name of the first Hungarian king and Timuzsin, the birth name of Mongolian emperor Genghis Khan.

COACH

Javier Sabate

When the season started, Javier Sabate probably did not guess that he would be MVM Veszprém's head coach at some point. However, when the club parted ways with Antonio Carlos Ortega, assistant coach Sabate took over. He paid back the trust by leading Veszprém to their third consecutive VELUX EHF FINAL4.

All-star team

A record number of 28,130 handball fans voted for the 2015/16 All-star team of the Women's EHF Champions League, creating a selection of Europe's finest players

GOALKEEPER

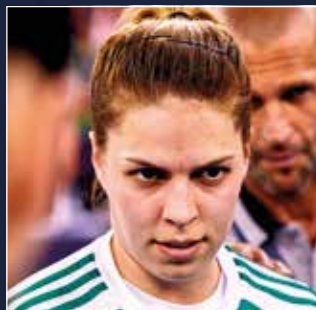

Kari Grimsbø

Kari Grimsbø joined Győr during the 2014/15 season. In her second year with the Hungarian champions, Grimsbø's saves were instrumental in leading the club all the way to the final of the Women's EHF Champions League.

Aniko Kovacsics

Aniko Kovacsics was the replacement of choice when Győr's number one playmaker Anita Görbicz became pregnant in the 2014/2015 season. Even though she usually played on the left wing, just like for the national team at the EHF EURO 2014, the 24-year-old played an excellent season, scoring 45 goals along the way.

Cristina Neagu

Cristina Neagu successfully defended her All-star team nomination as the best left back which she had already gained in the 2014/15 season. The Buducnost left back was not only her team's most dangerous player (94 goals), but also played a huge role in Romania's bronze medal performance at the World Championship 2015.

CENTRE BACK

Nycke Groot

In her first season with Hungarian champions Győr, Dutch international Nycke Groot quickly turned into one of the team's key players. And that, despite the fact that she shared her position with no one less than Anita Görbicz.

YOUNG PLAYER

Luca Szekerczes

At just 21 years of age, the right back quickly made a name for herself this season as FTC's first choice for penalties. Even though she did not get much playing time apart from this role, she scored 53 goals and is now hungry to achieve even more in the coming season.

LINE PLAYER

Heidi Løke

On the line, Heidi Løke was once more the fan favourite, having gained a place in the respective teams, having gained a place in the respective teams at the EHF EURO events in 2010, 2012 and 2014, the World Championship 2011, the Olympic Games 2012 and the Women's EHF Champions League 2014/15.

Nora Mørk

Although Larvik HK did not make the Women's EHF FINAL4 in 2016, Nora Mørk was still one of the season's standout players, with her 93 goals firmly placing her among the top five scorers in 2015/16. The Norwegian international will surely have another shot at the Women's EHF Champions League trophy when she joins Győr next season.

Jovanka Radicevic

Following a 'one-year break,' as Linn-Kristin Riegelhuth Koren was the All-star right back in 2014/15, Jovanka Radicevic staged her All-star comeback this season. However, despite the Montenegrin international's best efforts, the third consecutive third place finish at the Women's EHF FINAL4 was again the final result for HC Vardar.

DEFENDER

Eduarda Amorim

The 29-year-old was a cornerstone of Győr's defence in the 2015/16 season; however, the left back continued to be a threat to reckon with in attack. She scored 60 goals overall, her third best tally since she joined Győr in 2009.

COACH

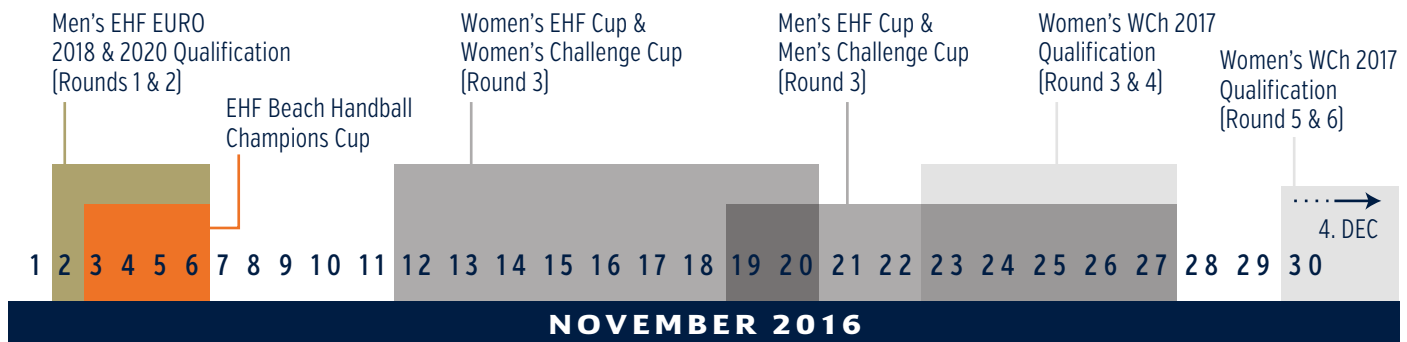

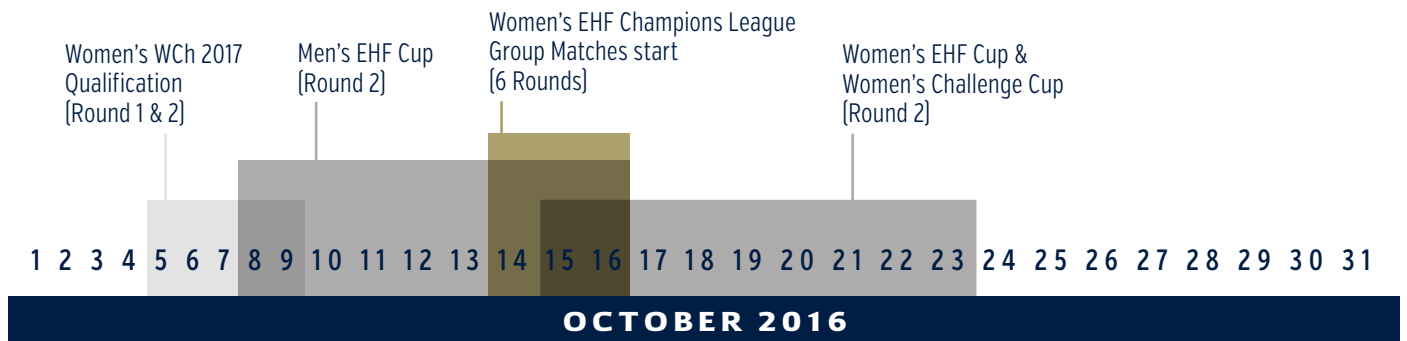

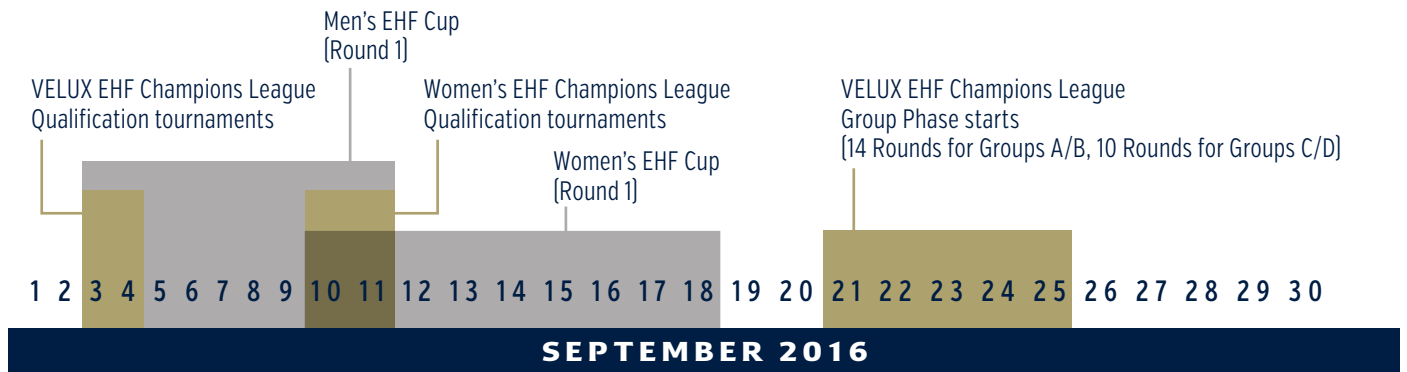

Ambros Martin

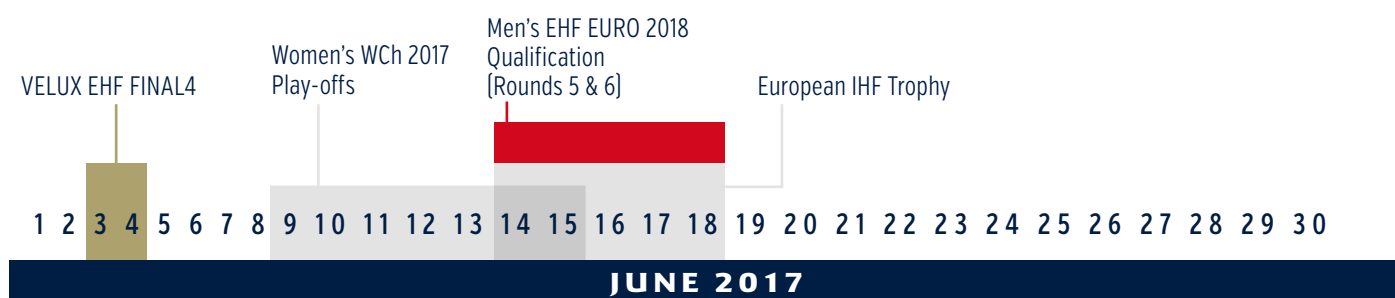

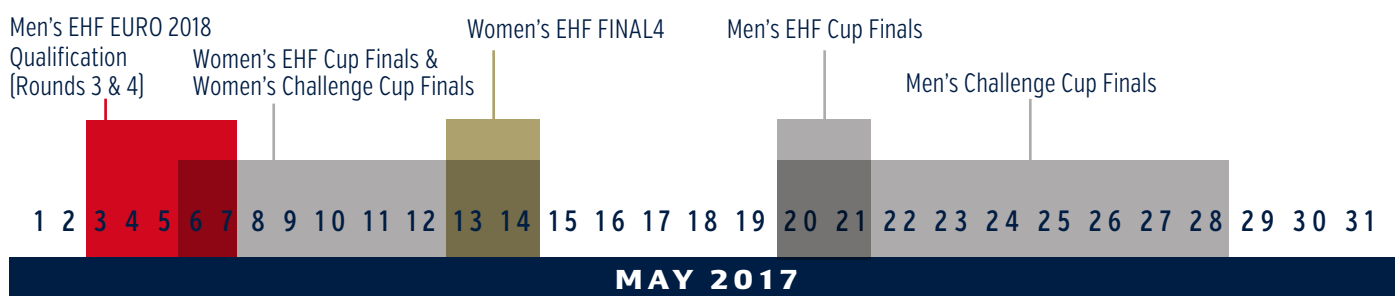

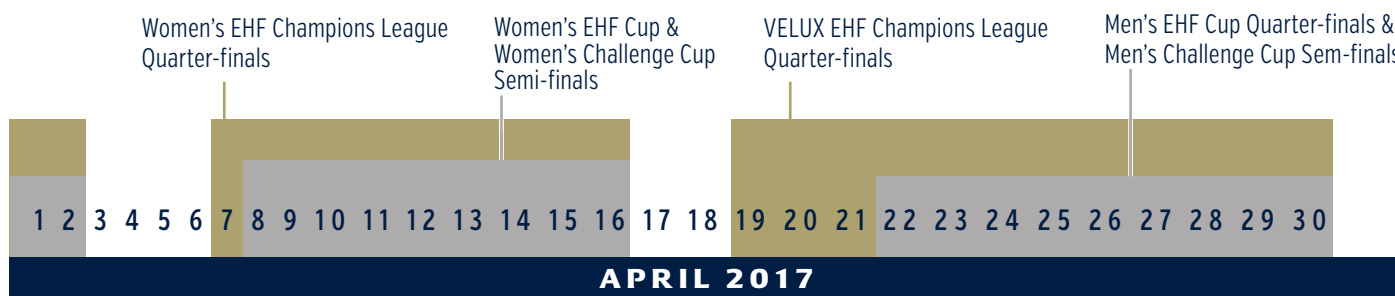

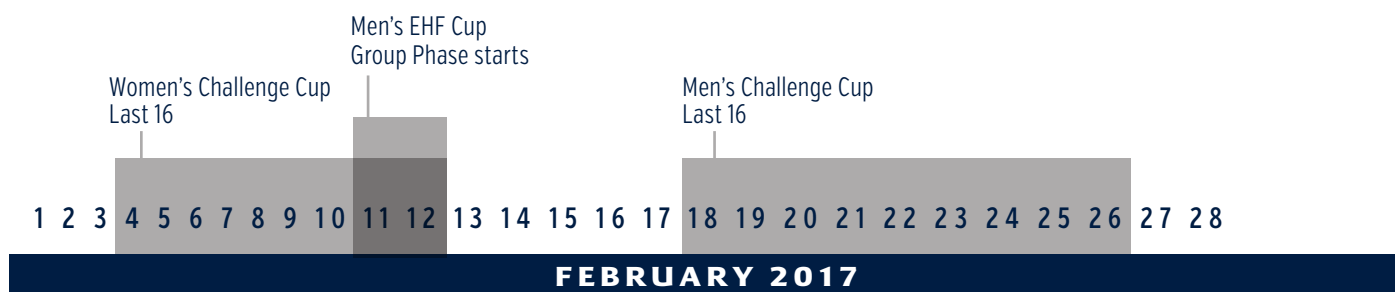

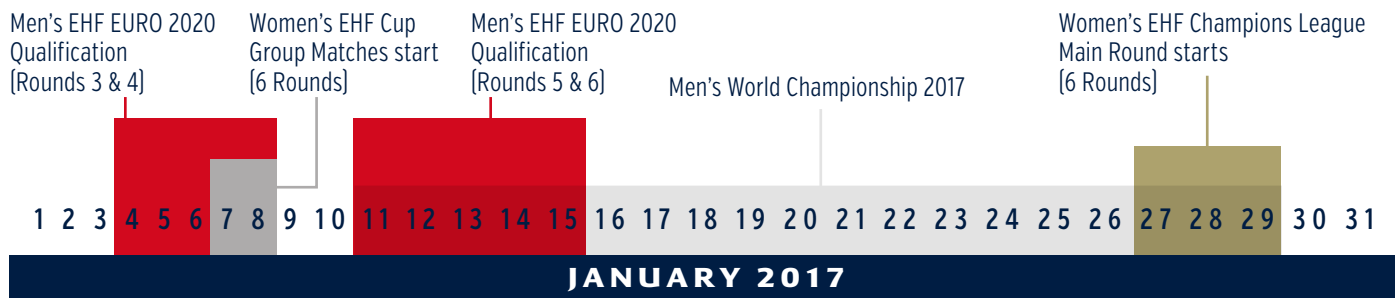

For the second season in a row, Ambros Martin claimed the All-star coach award. The Spaniard has been the brain behind Győr most recent successes, leading the team to back-to-back titles in 2013 and 2014.

The 2016/17 season is coming

A passion that never stops

Is there a time when it is necessary to stop playing handball? No, and every year the European Masters prove that participation in the sport is not limited by age. In 2016, 61 teams across five different age categories – women's +33 and +43 as well as men's +35, +45 and +50 – participated in the Masters' 10th edition which took place in Poreč, Croatia from 10 to 12 June.

With almost 200 games played across all categories, the team behind this Sport Report decided not to delve too much into the results (for those interested, head to www.ehfmasters.com), but go straight to the heart of things. Something that is valid not only for handball, but beyond – we call it the 'ultimate formula for success'. So we sat down, looked at games, teams, players, line-ups and eventually found them – the three ingredients that make up the 'ultimate formula for success'.

The coach

Battle-hardened as a former international handball goalkeeper, nothing can surprise him anymore. He knows the tactics to beat every team.

The scorer

Super-efficient from line, super-efficient from the backcourt. Wake him up 3am in the morning and he will lead the team to victory regardless.

The fans

The eighth man. As important as the team itself – no one can do without them!
